School of Education
College of Health and Human Sciences

Assistant/Associate Professor, Higher Education Leadership (Tenure Track/Tenured)

Applications are invited for a tenure track/tenured position in Higher Education Leadership at the advanced assistant or associate professor level.

This position is part of a cluster search designed to further the School of Education’s commitment and contributions to diversity, equity and inclusion in the fields of higher education leadership, adult education and training, counseling and career development, and science, technology, engineering, and mathematics (STEM) education through collaborative research, teaching and community engagement.

We seek a scholar committed to diversity, equity, and inclusion initiatives who (a) has high research productivity or potential, (b) can help build alliances across multiple program areas, (c) is active in seeking external funding, and (d) can teach and advise doctoral students in a blended instructional program.

Our Higher Education Leadership doctoral program is nationally recognized and unique, utilizing both synchronous and asynchronous learning technologies, as well as campus-based face-to-face summer courses. The program prepares leaders who serve as scholar practitioners in a variety of higher education contexts. More information about the program can be found at: http://soe.chhs.colostate.edu/students/doctoral/hel/index.aspx.

RESPONSIBILITIES:

• Provide collaborative leadership and coordinate a research-oriented doctoral program in higher education leadership.
• Engage in externally funded research, especially in relation to diversity, equity, and inclusion initiatives.
• Teach hybrid courses in areas of expertise (using video conferencing, synchronous, and asynchronous learning technologies).
• Chair and serve on dissertation committees.
• Provide service to the school, college, university, community, state, and nation.
• Work collaboratively with faculty members across the university on teaching, research, and community engagement initiatives related to diversity, interdisciplinarity, and internationalization.
REQUIRED QUALIFICATIONS:

- Earned doctorate in higher education leadership or a related field
- Record of scholarship and publication commensurate with a research university (high research activity)
- Demonstrated teaching excellence in higher education, student affairs, leadership, administration, or related areas
- Experience advising and mentoring graduate students
- Leadership experience in a higher education setting
- Demonstrated commitment to diversity, equity, and inclusion in teaching, research, and service

PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS:

- Success at securing external funding commensurate with a research university (very high research activity)
- Experience teaching and advising students via distance technologies
- Experience teaching research methods
- Experience mentoring graduate students to be scholar practitioners
- Demonstrated commitment to culturally responsive practices and culturally relevant instruction

SALARY AND BENEFITS: This is a nine-month, full-time position. Salary is negotiable and commensurate with qualifications and experience. Colorado State University offers an excellent selection of benefits. The University is committed to creating a community which values and supports diversity; individuals who contribute to such commitment are strongly encouraged to apply.

APPLICATION PROCEDURE: For full consideration, complete applications should be submitted electronically to the Search Committee Chair by December 30, 2014. Finalists for the position will be interviewed in February or early March. The search will remain open until the position is filled. The start date for the position is August 16, 2015.

For more information about the position, the School of Education or Colorado State University, please contact Dr. Louise Jennings, Professor and Search Co-Chair: louise.jennings@colostate.edu or 970-491-5425.

Complete applications should include a letter of interest that addresses the qualifications and responsibilities for the position, a full curriculum vita, and the names, positions, and contact information for three references. References will be contacted only with the candidate’s prior approval. Submit application materials electronically to:
