EMMAFOWLER

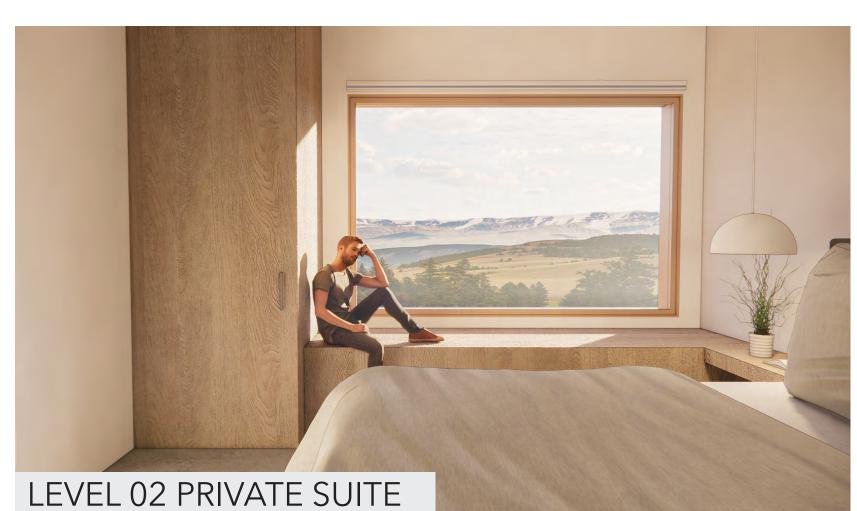

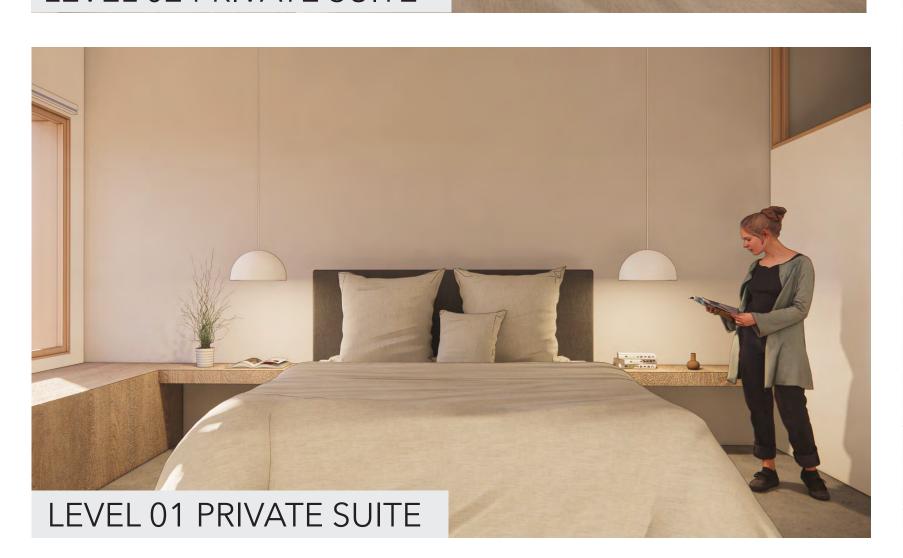

LOCATION: Aspen, Colorado

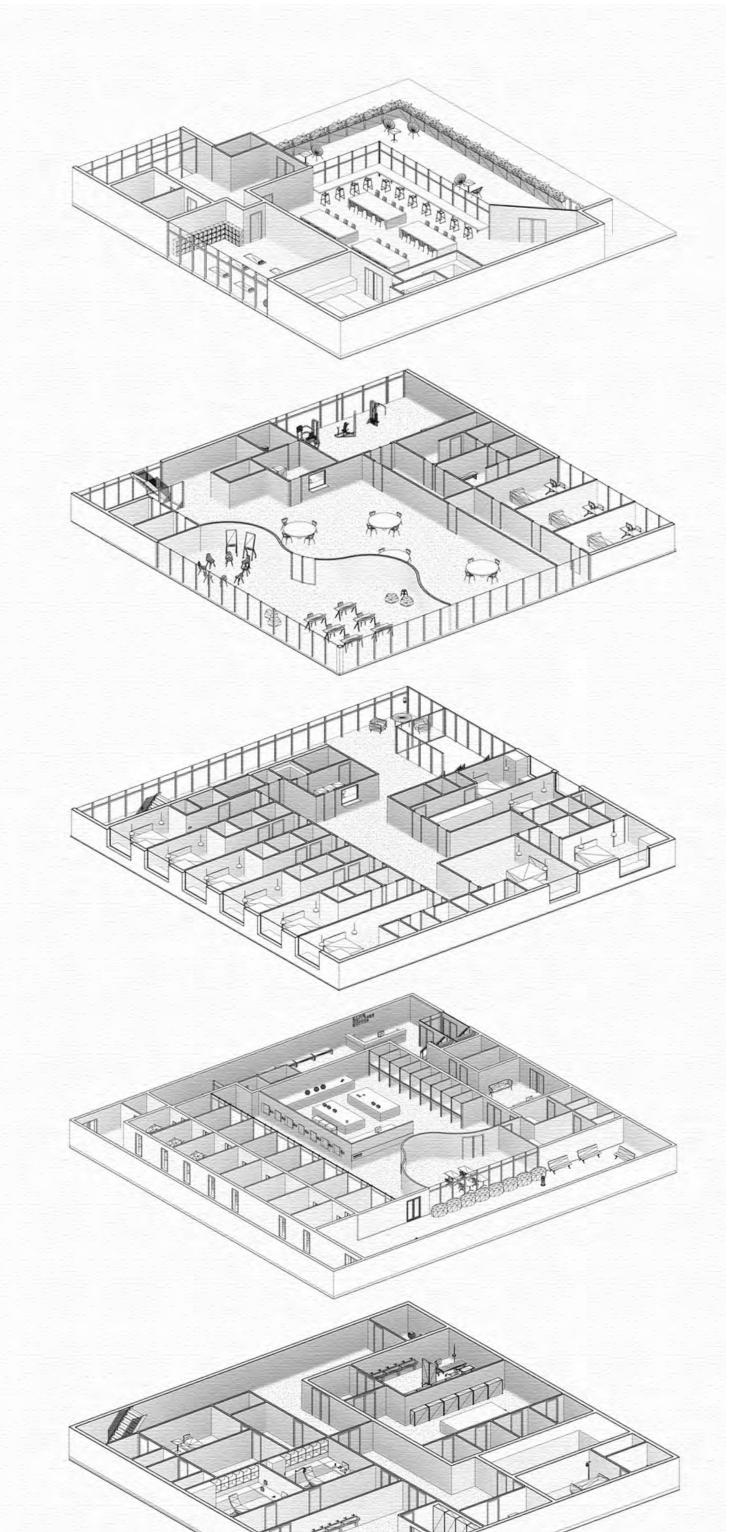

Named after the constellation Canis Major, the Canis Wellness Center is a unique, hybrid institution that combines a wellness center with an animal shelter. The typical patients staying at the wellness center are those suffering from mental illness or substance abuse. Research has found that animals can provide humans with emotional support, accelerate the healing process, and even lower blood-pressure. Through the animal integration program, patients have the option to engage with, train, or even adopt an animal from the shelter once their stay is complete. The purpose of the Canis Wellness Center is to nourish the powerful human-animal relationship in order to better support and improve restorative practices.
